INSPECTING DAIRIES NEAR MARYVILLE

WANT GOOD MILK FOR NUTRITION CLASS

SCHOOL BOARD TO BUY

If Children's Parents Cannot Buy Milk It Will Be Furnished Free of Charge

Some of the dairies near Maryville are being inspected today by Dr. Claude P. Fryer, county health officer, and from one of the dairies Dr. Fryer will recommend the purchase of the milk that is to be used in the nutrition class at the Washington School.

When the class was started the problem at once arose as to how the milk would be obtained, since it is not possible to bring about the proper health conditions among the children without the use of milk. In some cases the parents of the children are not able to provide the milk they need so it must be provided in some other manner. Dr. Fryer took the matter up with the school board and that organization decided to put up the money necessary for the purchase of the milk.

The school board will purchase the milk from a dairy recommended by Dr. Fryer and this milk will be furnished to the school children. If the parents are able to pay for the milk they are asked to do so but if they are not, then it will be furnished free of charge.

Dr. Fryer told of what the school board had done regarding furnishing of milk at the weekly dinner of the Chamber of Commerce last night. He said that some of the children that had been placed in the nutrition class which has nineteen members are as much as 23½ pounds underweight.

ARE CELEBRATING 64TH ANNIVERSARY

MR. AND MRS. LEMUEL WOODWORTH MARRIED APRIL 4, 1858

SERVED IN CIVIL WAR

Ceremony Performed At Home of John Snapp in White Cloud Township

Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel Woodworth of 804 South Fillmore street are quietly observing their sixty-fourth wedding anniversary today. It is probable that no couple living in the county now can boast of having lived together so long.

On April 4, 1858, a wedding ceremony was performed at the home of John Snapp in White Cloud township, whereupon his daughter, Mrs. Rua Adalina Kavanaugh, and Mr. Woodworth started life together. The Snapp farm was located south of Maryville near the former Denning farm, now owned by W. R. Hukill.

Mr. Woodworth was born on November 25, 1833, in St. Lawrence County, New York, and came to Nodaway County from Ohio in the spring of 1856, locating at Bridgewater near Arkoe. He has been a resident of Missouri since that time. For many years he followed his trade of carding wool. He enlisted in Company M, Ninth Missouri Cavalry, Missouri State Militia, on the eighth day of August, 1863, and was mustered out of service on July 13, 1865. He saw some hard and exciting service during those two years.

After receiving an honorable discharge Mr. Woodworth, and his wife, settled in Savannah and after a short residence there moved to St. Joseph, where they lived for two years. In the fall of 1870 they returned to Nodaway County and lived on a farm, twelve miles south of Maryville. They moved to Maryville in the spring of 1900 and since that time Mr. Woodworth and his bride of three score years and four have continuously been residents of this city.

Mrs. Woodworth reached her eighty-eighth year in February of this year.

They have one daughter and two sons, Mrs. J. O. Hiett, who, with Mr. Hiett, resides with her parents; Edwin M. Woodworth of Columbia, Mo., and Geo.F. Woodworth of Oklahoma City, Okla. The latter was secretary of the Standard Poland-China Record Association of Maryville for many years. There are eleven grandchildren and eight great grandchildren, four of the former residing in Nodaway County. They are Dr. Charles T. Bell and Mrs. J. D. Richey of Maryville, Mrs. Cora Clary of Clear mont and Marvin Bell, living ten miles south of Maryville.

DR. FRYER SPOKE AT C. OF C DINNER

TOLD OF CORRECTIONS TO BE MADE IN YOUNG

7 TO 14 IS BEST AGE

Plans As First Tried Out Was That Of Working With Adults But Best Time Is When Young

"In examining drafted men for the United States army during the World War," said Dr. Claude P. Fryer, county health officer, speaking last night at the weekly dinner of the Maryville Chamber of Commerce, held at the Linville Hotel, "it was found that twenty-eight men out of each 100 were unfit for military service. Investigation since the war has shown that practically every one of the men rejected would have been able to pass the examination if he had had certain corrections made when he was a child in school. The time that these corrections are most effective is when the child is between the ages of seven and fourteen years. But these men had no physical supervision in their school days and the corrections were never made.

"It is just such conditions as those that years later made the men of our country unfit to pass the examination for the army that the health department of this county and the departments of other counties are trying to correct. We go into the schools, point out the defective children and tell what is wrong with them. Then we follow up the examinations and urge the parents to have the corrections made.

"The United States had always prided itself on being a nation of stalwart men. We imagined that we had the best race physically in the world. But the draft statistics do not show this. Our young people have been lacking correct physical attention.

"The promoters of good health in the country made the mistake a few years ago of trying to bring about better conditions by working with the adult. But the proper way is to train the child along the right lines for good health and there will be no need of training him when he grows up. This is what the County Health Department is attempting to do. Our system is such it makes it possible for the child to come back to normal.

"Many of the criminals of the country are people who have physical defects. If these defects had been corrected when the men were young it is probable that they would never have become criminals. I know of a case of a boy who stole everything he could put his hands on and after the adenoids and tonsils were removed he quit and became a bright normal child.

"Most teachers in a school can pick out the people who are physically defective by merely going over the grade cards. If the child is deficient in his studies it is probable that he is defective physically.

"A child who is suffering from some physical defect cannot study well and he cannot be healthy. One who suffers from bad teeth, for instance, does not sleep well and his food is not digested as it should be.

"The nutrition class at the Washington School of Maryville is one in which we are introducing some of our methods of correcting some of the defects."

Dr. Fryer said that the co-operation in Maryville and throughout the county had been exceptionally good in the public health work and that this was something that could not be said for many communities when the work was first introduced.

THE ARCADIAN TRIO WAS WELL LIKED

LARGE CROWD ATTENDED NUMBER OF LYCEUM

ANOTHER NEXT WINTER

Garland N. White Expressed Gratitude of Committee for Support of People of Maryville

The Arcadian Trio, which came to Maryville as the closing number of the Lyceum Course sponsored by the Oxford Class of the Sunday school of the First Methodist Church, drew a large crowd last night. The number was an extra one to take the place of one that was put on last fall which did not prove satisfactory. It was of such a nature that the season ticket holders seemed well satisfied. Some of them even seemed to feel that they were glad the number last fall was a poor one in order that they could get to hear the Trio last night.

The Trio was liberal while on its visit here about giving entertainment other than what is was scheduled to give at the church in the evening. It arrived in town on the 11:50 o'clock train yesterday morning and went in the afternoon to the Maryville High School, where it put on a program for the pupils. At 6:30 it appeared again at the weekly dinner of the Maryville Chamber of Commerce held at the Linville Hotel. Here it sang several songs and the men at the dinner seemed highly pleased.

A large percentage of those who attended last night were season ticket holders, so from a financial standpoint the committee, which is considerably in debt for the lyceum, was not helped out a great deal. However, this number was sent by the company free of charge, so all that was made over and above the advertising was clear.

In spite of the fact that there is a deficit this year arrangements have been made for another lyceum next winter. The Redpath-Horner company will furnish the numbers again next winter.

Garland N. White, a member of the committee in a short introductory talk at the church last night expressed the gratitude of the committee to the people of Maryville for their support of the lyceum this year and asked that they help make it a success next year.

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN NODAWAY COUNTY

ADVERTISING A CITY.

An interesting attempt to attract travel has recently been made by the city of Vancouver in British Columbia. In order to appeal to automobile tourists and others, it has been advertising the attractions of the city and its vicinity in the newspapers of many American cities, as well as distributing a good deal of printed literature.

Many of these advertisements were planned to meet special occasions, like Fourth of July and other holidays. Following each publication of copy in American newspapers, a careful count was made of American cars crossing the border on the way to Vancouver. The results repeatedly indicated that a considerable number of people were following the advertised suggestions.

Although 1921 was considered a depressed year in business, yet more automobiles crossed the border on the way to Vancouver in the first six months of 1921, than during the entire year of 1920. The advertising must have done it. Such an experience not merely suggests how a community can be advertised, but it shows what a tremendous force publicity is, and how people may be influenced by it.

Advertising is a great and mighty force which any community or business can make use of to promote its growth or its products. The man who uses the force of publicity is like one who sets sail on a river. Not merely is his progress promoted by his work at the oars, but if he follows the current, a great and mighty energy sweeps him along to his destination.

Advertising is a mighty force, a tremendous current of human interest, that sweeps into its power the desires, the ambitions, the needs of the people. Those that trust themselves to this current and appeal effectively to those popular needs, are carried on to a greater success than could otherwise be possible.

Orville Gray of Quitman sustained a dislocated ankle last evening while jumping with several young men near the garage.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON

Washington, April 4.—The high cost of government in Missouri is revealed by a statement just issued by the Bureau of Census which shows that the increase was nearly 100 per cent during the six year period from 1914 to 1920. One of the intersting features of the report was that the increase in property and special taxes from 1914 to 1917 was 54.6 whereas from 1917 to 1920 the increase was 185.9 per cent.

Total expenditures for the state government in Missouri for the fiscal year ending Dec. 31, 1920 are given as $20,292,989 whereas for the corresponding period in 1914 they were but $10,204,123. The per capita costs which were but $3.04 in 1914 were $5.85 in 1917 and in 1920 they were $5.98. Of this $5.98 there was $5.69 devoted to the general expenses of the state government; nine cents for interest on the state debt and twenty cents for outlays.

Incidentally the state treasury had a substantial balance in 1920 for while the expenses were $20,392,989 total revenue receipts amounted to $27,353,805, which was $8.02 per capita, or an excess of receipts over expenditures of $2.04 per capita.

The effect of prohibition on state revenues is reflected in the proportionate amount derived from licenses during the years compared. In 1914 the state obtained 35.6 per cent of its revenue from business and non-business licenses, the latter including automobile taxes, whereas in 1920 the proportionate amount derived from this source was but 14.8 per cent. The per capita net indebtedness for Missouri is decreasing, having been $2.19 for 1914 and but $1.73 in 1920.

The establishment of a post office at Winnwood, Clay county, has been recommended by Rep. H. F. Lawrence.

The allotment of an additional federal judge for the Western district of Missouri is being made the object of a determined fight in the senate this week. The judgeship bill, as it passed the House, provided for two new judges for Missouri but the senate committee eliminated the one for the western district and allowing but one for the eastern district.

Missouri played a leading role in the defeat of the Republican House leaders last week when the appropriation for rivers and harbors was increased from $27,635,260 to $42,815,561. The entire delegation, irrespective of party lines, voted for the increase despite the opposition of Floor Leader Mondell and Rep. Madden, chairman of the appropriations committee. The fight was organized by Rep. C. A. Newton and the river advocates are now counting on Senator Reed to prevent any reduction when the bill reaches that body.

An early decision on the location of the neuro-psychiatric hospital to care for shell shock victims in the states of Missouri, Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska is expected. Provisions for this is made in the Langley bill which passed the House and is now before the Senate. Missouri towns under consideration as possible locations are St. Joseph, Excelsior Springs, Kansas City, and Springfield. The only other competitor known is Leavenworth, Kansas, the suggestion being that the hospital should be located at the Old Soldiers' Home there.

Missouri postmasters of the presidential class nominated last week were: John W. Smith, Browning and Archie C. Atterberry, Atlanta. However, there were a number of fourth class postmasters named. An allotment of $66,000 was made by the War Finance Corporation last week for redistricting Federal Reserve loans to farmers and stockmen in Missouri.

Missouri with total farm property valued in excess of $3,500,000,000 was sixth in rank among the states of the Union, according to a report just issued by the Department of Commerce. This report further shows that the value of all farm crops in Missouri for 1919 was $559,048,000, indicating a return of about 14 per cent on the investment and ranking the state seventh. In live stock Missouri, credited with $105,601,000, was in ninth place.

Lieut. Gov. Hiram Lloyd of Missouri was a Washington visitor last week. He was a visitor at the White House and the guest of several luncheons given in his honor by members of the delegation.

Orders have been issued to discontinue the post office at Cawood, Andrew county, and mail for that section hereafter will be routed through Guilford.

DEMOCRATIC POSITION ON FOUR POWER PACT

BY RICHARD LINTHICUM
(Special Correspondence)

Washington, April 4—Now that the treaties negotiated at the Conference on the Limitation of Armament have been ratified by the Senate with practically no opposition except to the 4-Power Pact, a calm review and assessment of the facts relating thereto places the Democratic party in a favorable and almost enviable attitude when compared with the attitude of the Republican Senators toward the Treaty of Versailles.

As was said by Senator Harrison (Dem. Miss.) there was no partisanship in the consideration of these treaties nor was there any in the Conference on the Limitation of Armaments. It will be recalled that while the conference was in session there was no word of Democratic criticism of its work. No round-robin was presented to President Harding to the effect that any treaty growing out of that conference would be rejected, such as was presented to President Wilson at the time of the Versailles Conference.

While the debate on the Four-Power Treaty was extensive it was not for the purpose of unnecessarily delaying action. The Democratic Senators who opposed that treaty did so with regret as Senator Harrison so frankly stated. They opposed it because they believed it to be an alliance, and the reservation offered by Senator Robinson, (Dem. Ark.) would have relieved the treaty of their objectionable feature. If the Robinson reservation had been accepted by the Republican proponents of the treaty would have been no further objection to it.

Senator Harrison made the point that in the first call for the conference there was nothing said about a Four-Power alliance. He also read the resolutions passed by the conference of Democratic Senators on Sept. 28, 1921, which, among other things, said:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this conference that the fullest measure of success attend the Disarmament Conference called by President Harding to meet in the city of Washington on November 11, 1921."

He reviewed the history of the disarmament sentiment, telling how in 1916 a Democratic representative from Missouri (Mr. Hensley) offered a disarmament resolution which was incorporated in the naval appropriation bill; how President Wilson had incorporated a plan for disarmament in the League of Nations Covenant; how the distinguished Democratic Senator from Montana (Mr. Walsh) on December 11, 1920, four days before the Borah resolution was introduced, had introduced a disarmament resolution; how the Republican members of the Naval Affairs Committee had voted unanimously against reporting the Borah resolution and the Democratic members voted solidly for it.

And then he told dramatically how Senator Poindexter (Newberry Republican) of Washington and Senator Hale (Newberry Republican) of Maine fought for days to defeat the Borah resolution, and how it was supported by the solid Democratic vote, and was finally adopted after public opinion had forced the White House and its spokesmen to abandon their opposition.

In view of this record, Senator Harrison said it is deplorable that the Republican who fought the resolution for disarmament from the beginning should now be claiming the treaties resulting from that conference as a party achievement. Discussing the treaties not as a Democrat but as an American, Senator Harrison said: "There cannot be an dthere is no politics in this. There should be no partisanship in it."

As proof of his statement, the other treaties following the Four-power pact were adopted with practically no opposition and with little debate.

The Democrats feel that they have nothing to apologize for or to be ashamed of in their efforts to amend the Four-power past in order to make it an agreement instead of an alliance. Failing in this they offered no objection to the other treaties, and enthusiastically supported the treaty for a reduction of naval armaments. Their politics stopped at the water's edge, which is an evidence of Americanism and patriotism, always the rule in this country in matters of our foreign relations until for partisan purposes the treaty of Versailles was made the exception.

The Super-Interesting Sex

(Leslie's Weekly).

A recent issue of a great daily "featured" women in no less than five captions on its front page. Throughout the rest of the current news items the gentler sex figured in about 10 per cent of the headings, not because the individuals were distinguished or notorious, but just women as women because they were women: "Woman Slashes Fair Rival;" "Woman Pawns Gems for Honeymoon;" "Woman Artist Denounces Posters," and the like. Whereas man as man never gets a line. What does it all mean? Is the dismal prophecy of the antisuffrage Cassandras coming true, and are we all in process of being forcibly feminized? Or do women make so much more interesting reading than men? And if so, to whom? To men or to other women? Does the same occult cause underlie the fact that the feminine pictures in the public prints outnumber the masculine in the radio of three or four to one? We used to suppose this to be an esthetic discrimination, but a study of the New York "society column" photographs has bitterly disillusioned us. There must be some reason for this cataclysm of femininty and some person who knows that reason, unless, it is purely a journalistic superstition. Won't some one kindly rise and enlighten us? Not only what's the answer, but also how come?

THE CHICKEN

You see a languid river flowing down
Through opulent valleys to a rainbow town;
And on a barge on silks and pillows sighing
You see your indolent, soft body lying,
With maids that flatter as they comb your gold,
And waiters that bring birds on golden dishes,
While your white fingers, long and slim and cold,
Dip in a bowl and toy with golden fishes.

I see a ballroom with a squeaking jet,
And last year's clothes, and broken plumes, and debt;
And raucous tongues and lifted brows and jeers
And howling emptiness, and years and years;
The day a hell of dreams and obscene hoping,
The dark a dead world, where a cursing soul
Sits at the window with cold fingers groping
Vainly for goldfish in an empty bowl.

Hermann Hagedorn, in New Republic.

GETS RID OF THE SMOKE

Invention Not Only Does Away With Nuisance, but Actually Effects Saving of Coal.

An invention has been perfected which to all intents and purposes does away with smoke. The idea is quite simple: the smoke is given a bath as it rises up the chimney. In this way all the soot and other tiny particles of matter are washed away, and only harmless, colorless gases escape from the top of the chimney.

The chimney is lined with a tube pierced with thousands of tiny holes, through which water is pumped in the form of fine spray. Thus the chimney becomes a gigantic shower bath. An umbrella-like contrivance at the foot of the shaft catches the falling water, turning it off into drains and preventing it from reaching the furnace.

Apart from the fact that it does away with the smoke nuisance, the invention will prove economical. Hitherto we have wasted millions of tons of fuel a year, for soot is unburnt fuel which can be used. The soot can be filtered out of the water and put to numerous profitable uses. You will see what this means when you consider that a single factory chimney, without the shower-bath attachment, belches out many tons of soot in a week.

ANYTHING TO OBLIGE

His Wife's Mother—And while I'm here, Ferdinand, I want you to remember that I object to smoking.

Ferdinand—All right, mother-in-law. It's not compulsory in this house. No one will say a word about it if you don't smoke.

Presence of Fish a Puzzle.

A Saltcoats (Sask.) reader says, and the statement is made on that authority only, that after some heavy rains, of which there was a plentiful supply during the month, he saw thousands of small fish in the hay meadows where hay had been cut in the fall; the hollows made by the horses feet were literally alive with them. There are no lakes, rivers or creeks near where they were. About three miles farther north, some men raking hay that had been cut and put in bunches previous to the rain, and who were putting it on a higher ground to dry, pulled out along with the hay quite a considerable number of pike, about eight and ten inches long. As in the first case, there is no running water or lakes in the vicinity. Where did the fish come from?

Recalls the Golden Goose.

A Cottage Grove (Oregon) man is in doubt whether he has an undiscovered gold mine on his place or whether he has killed a hen which had discovered a method of transforming quills into golden nuggets, two of which were found in the chicken's craw while being prepared as the piece de resistance for a noonday meal. The hen had hardly been off its owner's land at any time and must have found the nuggets within a short distance of home, which is on the west side, well within the city limits.

"Sweetest Lady" in Demand.

The "sweetest" woman in the world is in West Virginia, according to a Charleston (W. Va.) architect. He found her on top of the old courthouse building. The "lady" is an iron statue, its interior used as a hive for bees which gained access through a hole in the arm. Now everybody, including the city, is claiming ownership of the statue because of the honey in it.

Old Stuff.

"Girls of today are not what their mothers were."

"That's old stuff."

"Yes, older than you think. I'm reading from a magazine dated 1845."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

How To Make Radio Set

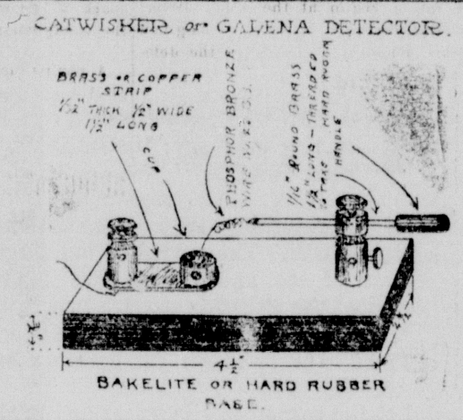
Note—Herewith is another installment of the series of articles by a radio engineer on how to make an inexpensive radio receiving set.—The Editor.

By William G. H. Finch
Associate Member Institute Radio Engineers.
(Written for International News Service.)

New York April 4—When a radio message is sent it travels as fast as light, 186,000 miles per second, the current having a frequency as high as 100,000 cycles per second, and, inasmuch as the diaphragm of the human ear will not respond to frequencies or vibrations over 20,000 per second it is evident that some means must be found to detect and translate these impulses before they reach the telephone receiver. It is a known fact that certain crystals possess the necessary properties to accomplish this result, the most popular one used being galena, contact being made by a fine springed wire—hence the name "Catwisker." In order to construct this type of Catwisker galena detector it will be necessary to obtain the following materials:



1 binding post.

1-double binding post.

1 bakelite or hard rubber base 4½ inches long, 2½ inches wide, ¾ inch thick.

1 piece of galena mounted on cup obtained from any radio supply store for thirty-five cents.

1 brass or copper strip.

2 inches of phosphor bronze or copper wire, No. 28 or 30 B. S. gauge.

1 round brass rod 1-15 of an inch or 3-32 of an inch in diameter, 1½ inches long, threaded to take hard rubber handle.

Drill an 8-32 of an inch hole ⅝ of an inch from both ends in center of base to take binding posts and drill another 8-32 inch hole 1¾ inches from edge on left side to take crystal cup and take the copper or brass strip, square up and mark off. To mount detector cup and binding post after the three holes are drilled, mount the binding post and metal strip as illustrated. Make a spring out of the phosphor bronze or copper wire as shown, soldering same to the end of the rod. You will now have completed the detector. The next article will tell how to make a fixed condenser and the radio code will be printed.

The Oracle

We introduce to-day the "Oracle." This column is for the benefit of the radio fan. We shall be glad to answer three brief questions from any reader pertaining to radio in this column.

Address letters to Radio Editor, The Democrat-Forum. All correspondence should be typewritten, or legibly written in ink, and use only one side of the paper. If you desire a special early reply, please enclose self-addressed stamped envelope. Diagrams, drawings, etc., should be on a separate sheet of paper.

Here are some questions we already have been asked:

D. R. wants to know—What size wire should I use for ground switch?

A. The Fire Underwriters require that no smaller than a No. 4 B. and S. copper wire be used for this purpose.

About Detectors

Q. What detector crystals can be used for receiving?

A. Galena and silicon are the most sensitive.

W. Hilleway wants to know—What size wire should I use for a receiving aerial?

A. Nos. 12 or 14 B. S. gauge bare copper or aluminum wire.

Q. What can I use to prevent the windings of my tuning coil from coming loose?

A. Apply a coat of orange shellac.

V. Hedden asks—What is the wave length and call of the Government station at Arlington?

A. 2,650 meters. Call: N. A. A.

Q. J. P. Joice sends in a diagram showing the aerial and ground are connected to the same binding post, and the detector, condenser and telephone receivers are in a series, and asks why it is that he has not been able to hear any messages.

A. Joice, you have certainly taken the joy out of your receiving set by sending the messages directly to the ground before any of your instruments have had a chance at them.

Buy Pure-Breds Now.

Jefferson City, April 4.—With pure-bred live stock prices nearer to those of grades than they have been any time in recent years, now is a most logical time for farmers to replace their grades, and for small breeders to advance to the ranks of the producers of the highest class of live stock.

The weekly reports of sales appearing in the agricultural and market press carry innumerable stories of vast opportunities for the live stock man. When good pure-bred cows bring $100 per head—when bulls of herd bull character sell for $150 and many times less—when the best boars fail to reach the $50 mark—the sign of the times reads "B-u-y."

Missouri breeders are staggering under a heavy load made heavier by the period of inflation and the subsequent period of deflation through which the country has just passed, according to Live Stock Deputy Marketing Commissioner S. T. Simpson of the Missouri State Marketing Bureau.

Those who used good judgment in making purchases are today finding a market at a reasonable price. Those who bought indiscriminately, without regard for individuality, find no market beyond meat prices. This condition should be a lesson to the man who has bought and the man who is thinking of buying pure-bred live stock.

Pure-breds of any breed, carrying the blood of producing families, and of modern individuality, bought at present prices, will make money for the man who will take them and give them reasonable care.

MOTHER'S SENSE.

Every woman knows that her house has to be cleaned thoroughly every spring. During winter, dust, dirt and germs accumulate in the corners, under the rugs, in the curtains and every place. Just so with your system—it should be given a thorough cleansing, purifying this spring. HOLLISTER'S GOLDEN NUGGET TABLETS will do the job slick and quick. They will clean your system, freshen and purify you all over—you'll enjoy living, eat better, sleep better — feel better. Gaugh & Evans.—Adv.

LIVE STOCK PRICES HIGHER GENERAL TRADE ACTIVE

Kansas City Stock Yards, April 4—Cattle receipts yesterday were the smallest of any Monday this year and the market showed an active turn at higher prices. The general opinion is that receipts from now on will be light. Hog prices which ruled strong last week made a further slight gain Monday and the general market is on a $10.00 basis. Receipts continue short of a year ago. Sheep and lambs were fully steady with last week's best prices and 10 to 15 cents higher than the close.

Monday's Receipts

Receipts, yesterday were 7,000 cattle 9,000 hogs, and 11,000 sheep, compared with 13,000 cattle, 11,000 hogs, and 9,000 sheep a week ago, and 13,200 cattle, 12,800 hogs, and 10,150 sheep a year ago.

Beef Cattle

Though a strike among coal mines was in progress it was of no material consequence in the live stock markets. Prices ruled strong to 25 cents higher in the extreme, mostly 10 to 15 cents up. Good handy and light weight steers were in better demand than for some time past. The supply of heavy steers was small and largely equal to demand. Cows and heifers and mixed yearlings were 10 to 15 cents higher. Veal calves were stronger.

Stockers and Feeders

Prices for thin cattle advanced as much as fat steers, with the trade active. The movement of Southwest cattle to Northern grass is under way and will continue for the next six weeks.

Hogs

The hog market is in a strong position with prices generally 10 cents higher than last week's close, and 25 to 35 cents higher than the low point last week. The top price was $10.10 and bulk of sales $9.80 to $10.05. Receipts are materially short of urgent requirements, and packers in order to keep their killing forces in operation are having to buy on other markets and ship here for slaughter. Pigs sold mostly at $9.00 to $9.65 and were quoted stronger.

Sheep and Lambs

Though offerings in the sheep division had wet fleeces and weighed heavy trade was active with prices quoted strong to 15 cents higher. Shorn Texas wethers sold at $9.25 to $9.50, shorn lambs $12.50 to $13.00, shorn yearlings $12.25, and wooled lambs $15.00 to $15.50.

Horses and Mules

Opening trade in horses was about the same as a week ago. Prices were unchanged. There was a fairly good inquiry for mules.

BILLY TERRELL'S COMEDIANS PERFORMED LAST NIGHT.

Billy Terrell's Comedians opened last night by a three-night stand at the Empire Theatre with the 3-act comedy drama, "The English and the Irish." The company carries a lot of special scenery, a part of which was exceptionally good. There were some good specialties between the acts. Tonight the company will play "The Killers," a four-act western play.

The most pleasing feature of the show last night was that put on by "baby" Mary, the 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Terrell. The little girl brought a strong applause from the audience and much favorable comment. She appears in her own little specialty acts.

This Is the Month

To make garden.
To gather greens.
To uncover the strawberry bed and cultivate between rows.
To get every manure pile out on the fields where it is needed.
To sprinkle a little grass seed on the bare spots in the lawn.
To clear out all the remaining vegetables from the cellar, and let in the fresh air.
To take the shoes off the horses working in the fields, and give their feet a rest.
To plant potatoes on Good Friday. Extra early potatoes can be secured by sprounting them before planting.
To guard the horses' shoulders. In no place is an ounce of prevention worth more. Cleanliness solves ninety per cent of the problem.
To set every egg you plan to hatch. Late chicks seldom pay their cost. Remember the old saying, "A chick in June is ten months soon."
To plant pumpkins for stock feeding. Their chemical analysis shows little to commend them, but as an appetizer and system toner, they are valuable for both hogs and cattle.
To make sure the garden fence is tight. Two or three old hens in a few hours' time can destroy the results of days of hard work, and a lot of good resolutions.—Farm Life.

J. K. SAWYERS, JR MADE GOOD RECORD

TEAMS AT FARMINGTON HAVE BEEN WINNERS.

TO SPEND SUMMER HERE

Is Getting Ready to Put Strong Baseball Organization in the Field.

John K. Sawyers, Jr., a Maryville boy, who is in charge of athletics at the Farmington High School at Farmington, West Va., has made an excellent record with his teams this year and is preparing to go in strong for baseball this spring. After the close of school he expects to return to Maryville for the summer.

The following story regarding Mr. Sawyers' athletic work for the season was carried recently in the Fairmont (West Va.) Times:

With the closing of the basketball season, the local high school athletes are turning their attention toward baseball. Coach Sawyers announced recently that practice will begin as soon as the weather will permit.

Indications are that Farmington will put at least a fairly strong team on the diamond this year. Games with East Side, Fairview, Barrackville, Shinnston and other near high schools are contemplated.

All in all the boys had a successful season in basketball. Farmington's schedule this year included many games and the best and strongest teams of this section of the state were met as well as strong teams in the Wheeling district. Throughout the season Farmington played teams generally conceded to be out of her class and in many of these contests was returned victor. Furthermore, most of her games were played away from home, her fastest basketball being displayed on foreign floors under strange referees.

A review of the season shows that the most notable games played by the Farmington five this year were the game with East Side in Fairmont when Farmington was returned victor by a score of 36 to 27, the game with Washington Irving at Clarksburg in which Farmington nosed her opponents by a score of 32 to 31, the game with Morgantown at Farmington which Farmington won by a score of 30 to 16, this probably being the most decisive defeat suffered by Morgantown all season, the game with the West Virginia University Freshman team which Farmington lost after a desperate struggle by a score of 21 to 29, and the great battle with Fairview at the Monongahela Valley tournament. The victory over Union High at Benwood, 28 to 20, was a most creditable one. In this last game Farmington gave Fairview, the tournament winners, the hardest fight of the tournament, losing by the close margin of 18 to 20 with the game undecided until the whistle blew and with all the breaks of the game going Fairview's way.

Farmington did not win all the games on her schedule. No one expected her to. However, she did defeat teams that no other Marion county team with the exception of Fairview did and she did more frequently upset the dope than any other high school team of her class. If the above record makes up success, then Farmington had a most successful year on the basketball floor.

Almost on Roof of World.

The highest known inhabited house in the world is near the summit of Donkia pass, in the north of Sikkim Tibet. It is a stone hovel, occupied by a Tibetan guard or outpost of four or five men. The height of the pass is 18,100 feet by trigonometrical survey, and 18,400 feet by the aneroid readings. At that height the amount of oxygen in the atmosphere is only half that at sea level. Tibetans can stand this, of course, as their plateau is generally between 15,000 and 16,000 feet. The fact that this hovel is only occupied for a few weeks in the height of the summer rather spoils its record as the highest inhabited house. There is a hovel in the Andes where Peruvian shepherds live all the year round at a height of 17,100 feet.

German Bees for Belgium.

German reparation experts, having caught and delivered the rabbits, pheasants and other wild game demanded by the reparations commission, are now engaged in collecting bees for delivery to France and Belgium. Twenty thousand swarms must be delivered to France and 300 to Belgium within the next few days. The bee hunters have been given a respite until next spring to turn over the rest of the requisition wherewith Germany is stung.

May Be Sorry for This Theft.

Someone stole 12 guinea pigs from a barn near the state house in Providence, R. I., where the animals, owned by the state board of health, were being kept for experimental purposes. Two of the pigs were inoculated with tubercular germs, two others with the germs of rabies. The state bacteriologist says he is anxious to locate the pigs or the man who stole them, not so much to recover the animals as to let it be known what a dangerous lot they are.

DE MOLAYS HOLD ELECTION OF OFFICERS TONIGHT

April 17 Will Be the First Anniversary of the Organization and a Big Meeting Will be Held.

The DeMolay order of Maryville will meet tonight at the Masonic Hall for the purpose of electing officers to serve during the coming three months. Another meeting of the organization will be held at 7:30 Friday evening at the Modern Woodman hall for the purpose of practice for the drill team.

April 17 the DeMolays of Maryville will celebrate their first anniversary with a big meeting at the Maryville High School. Letters are being sent out to all the Masonic bodies of the county inviting the members to attend this DeMolay meeting. There are plans on foot at both Tarkio and Stanberry for the organization of chapters of the DeMolay and it is probable that the installation work for one or both of these organizations will be done at the meeting here.

It is also planned to have a big "feed" served by the Smith-Hughes department of the Maryville High School.

There are fourteen candidates ready to take the degrees of the order and it is planned to do this work also as a part of the anniversary celebration.

The DeMolay organization has made a good record for its first year. With the number that is to be taken on the anniversary date the membership will be raised to 100.

RECIPE FOR LONG LIFE GIVEN BY CENTENARIAN.

Poplar Bluff, Mo., April 4. — There are three rules for longevity, according to William Huskey, one hundred years old, of Smelterville. These reasons are: First, moderate habits; second, work hard; and third, attend to your own business.

A few days ago Huskey celebrated his one hundredth birthday, sitting in his "old favorite" rocking chair by his "fireplace" in the little farm house.

Huskey is married and his wife is eighty-four. He is the father of eighteen children. He can neither read nor write, but is quite conversant with the questions of the day.
